SHANGOR THE BARBARIAN

Shangor is a barbarian warrior born in the bitter mountains of Northeim. Bold and brave, he left his cold home to seek fortune, fame and beautiful girls in hotter lands. His first contact with civilization was rather unlucky. In the Borderlands, a devious Tricarnian merchant offered him a cup of wine poisoned with the Lotus of Dreams, and poor Shangor woke up as a slave oarsman on a Tricarnian galley. In the end he managed to escape, but since then the blond barbarian has had a strong aversion to slavers of all races and types. Shangor is strong, brave and his laughter is like thunder. But him when he wields his axe, because he fights with reckless abandon. He isn't very bright, and sometimes his tongue runs faster than his mind. But, except for these minor faults, he is a great companion.
